On Thursday November 29, eclipse.org will be hosting a webcast announcing its board of directors and an overview of this the open platform for tool integration. Also included will be an explanation of how the eclipse provide the freedom that developers need to explore new opportunities.

Since Eclipse seems to be closely tied to WebSphere you might be interested in this webcast.

enjoy,
Jeff

Eclipse webcast
http://www.eclipse.org/announce/webcast.html?open&l=940,t=gr

Working the Eclipse Platform
The Eclipse Platform provides an open universal framework for building developer tools. If you build tools or use tools, you will benefit from reading this article. It provides an introduction to the Platform and hows how it operates. It is a subset of the more complete article published at the eclipse.org web site.

Interview: The Eclipse code donation