Marne Lynn Levine, a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Mark Levine of Shaker Heights, Ohio, was married last evening to Philip Joseph Deutch, a son of Samayla D. Deutch of New York and John M. Deutch of Belmont, Mass. Rabbi Stuart A. Gertman officiated at the National Museum of Women in the Arts in Washington.

Ms. Levine, 32, is keeping her name. She is the chief of staff to Lawrence H. Summers, the president of Harvard. She graduated from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Her father is a plastic surgeon at Associates in Ophthalmology in South Euclid, Ohio. Her mother, Teri Levine, is on the board of the Cleveland chapters of the American Red Cross and the Jewish Community Federation.

Mr. Deutch, 38, is a managing director and venture capitalist at Perseus, a venture capital and leveraged buyout company in Washington. He graduated from Amherst and received a law degree from Stanford. His mother is a lawyer in New York. His father, who was the director of Central Intelligence from 1994 to 1996, is an institute professor at M.I.T.

The bridegroom is a stepson of Patricia Deutch and of Richard Sigal. His previous marriage ended in divorce.

The bridegroom is a stepson of Patricia Deutch and of Richard Sigal. His previous marriage ended in divorce.

Photo (Ralph Alswang)