Henry Wellcome. (1890). Sir H. M. Stanley, G.C.B., Souvenir of Dinner to, Serial No. 22502993188, Collection M4523. Wellcome Library.

Sir Stanley was buried in Pirbright, Surrey.

Note in this 1890 Dinner to African explorer Sir H. M. Stanley that the "THE PRESS" (p.16) is on the Toast List.

Attendees included:

(U.S. Embassy Officials)
L.W. Brown, U.S. Consul
W. Burgess, U.S. Consul
J. Craig, U.S. Consul Agent Major
E.R. Jones, U.S. Consul
L. Moore, U.S. Consul
J.J. Piat, U.S. Consul
H.C. Pugh, U.S. Consul
Major J. Post, U.S. Military Attache
H.F. Stevens, U.S. Dispatch Agent

At the time of Stanley's first expedition it was estimated that more than a million lives were sacrificed every year in African tribal warfare and slave raiding. Stanley effectually crushed the slave trade, brought peace throughout Central Africa, and opened up immense regions to civilisation and commerce. He died May 10th, 1904, and was buried not by the side of Livingstone in Westminster Abbey (for the nation has no voice or power to decide) but in the little village churchyard at Pirbright, Surrey.

"Distinguished by his untiring industry and indefatigable zeal and unique service to the expedition.—devotion and chivalrous kindness to Emin Pasha. An indomitability of spirit, courage, and celerity of movement.—Faithful and obedient"—STANLEY.

THE STANLEY TESTIMONIAL SHIELD

This massive shield is of sterling silver, wrought in repoussé about 2 ft. in height; it weighs several hundred ounces, and bears in the centre an American shield, the Stars and Stripes being indicated by varied texture of the metal. Upon this American shield is overlaid a relief map of the Dark Continent, in oxydised silver. The American eagle at the top of the shield holds a medallion portrait of Stanley encircled by a wreath of laurels, and also holds a wand bearing the golden "Star of Duty."

On the right, an Abyssinian shield plumed with lion's mane, paw and tail. Jewelled clasp bears designs—Lion of Judah and Solomon's Seal, Abyssinian trophies. Scene: Fall of Magdala, Lord Napier and Stanley in the foreground, Elephant and Camel Corps to the left.

Scene below.—Tippoo Tib, the slave and ivory trader, at Mana Mamba, warns Stanley of the perils of the Congo.

Scene following.—Stanley traces the Congo to the sea, in the "Lady Alice." Attacked by cannibal tribes, and imperilled by cataracts.

Scene to the right.—Vivi. Stanley with his fleet of steamers founding the Congo Free State. He shivers a huge boulder with a sledge hammer, and is named by natives "Bula Matari," The Rock-breaker—the All-powerful—the name by which he is now known through all Africa.

Scene above.—Emin Relief Expedition, Aruwimi Forest. Stanley attacked by Wambutti dwarfs, Stairs in boat "Advance" wounded, Parke attending wounded native, Nelson and Jephson supporting bill-hookers who are carving a way through the forest. Native blazing a tree to guide rear-guard. Village, canoes and cataract in distance. Horned serpent, monkey, huge butterfly, types of trees, flowers, fruits, etc.

Camp scene in the great forest, above.—Stanley encounters starvation. His officers return empty-handed from the hunt. His foragers return with but a few handfuls of fungi, beans and pepper leaves in their aprons, to feed hundreds of starving men. Randy captures the guinea fowl. Adam and Eve near Stanley. Hammock bridge in distance. Piped ant-hill, etc., in foreground.

Scene top right-hand corner.—Stanley rescues Emin, traces the Similiki to its source, discovers the Mountains of the Moon, and confirms his previous discovery of Albert Edward Nyanza. Expedition arrives at lake shore, Stanley heads column, gunbearers at side. Emin follows with Casati at his side. Hammock bearers carrying Emin's daughter Ferida, Surgeon Parke attending her. Stairs sketching Mountains of the Moon, Nelson and Jephson taking observations. About fifty types of native men, women and children, with typical accessories, Maxim gun, baggage, etc., etc.

Every prominent figure on the shield is a special study, and represents a personality or a type. Every accessory has some special significance. The grip at the back of the shield is in the form of an African lion, and the arm guard is a crocodile.

TRIBUTE MEDALLIONS FOR STANLEY'S CHIEF OFFICERS

The silver medallions in rugged metal, and barbaric in character, are four inches in diameter, and bear a replica of the Stanley portrait as on the shield, with inscription:

"Never while human nature remains as we know it, will there be found four gentlemen so matchless for their constancy, devotion to their work, earnest purpose, and unflinching obedience to honour and duty."—STANLEY.

On the reverse, portraits of the Officers in bold relief, American and British flags. Map of Africa with outline route of the expedition. Scenes: Forest, Mountains of the Moon, Albert Edward Nyanza, Battle, etc.

The designs for the shield and medallions are by Henry Wellcome. The shield has been wrought by Messrs. Elkington & Co., London.

the Extreme Southern Sources of the Nile ; "Discovered the Albert Edward Nyauza; "First traced the Congo to the Sea; ■ . • "Created the Congo Free State; " Discovered the Mountains of the Moon "and Rescued Fimin Pasha." i Lieutenant W. OK STAIRS, R.E. " One of those rare personalities, oltener visible among military men r.han amon^ civilians, who could obey orders-without argument,-who could accept a command, and -without ado or fuss execute it re- ligiously.—Courageous, careful, watchful, diligent, and faithful."— ITENRY ViTI D IS WliVDR. Surbeos THOMAS HEAZLE PARKE, Army Micd. Staff. " I consider this expedition in nothing happier than in the possession of an unrivalled physician and suT£eon, Dr T. H. Parke, of the A.M.D.
—' Loyal and devoted services ftral-uit-ously.'— Skilled as a physician, tender as a nurse, 4ifted with remarkable consideration and sweet patience.—Every white officer in the expedition, Emin Pasha, Captain Casati, and the Kgypti m officers and all are indebted to him."— Stanley. 162, KiiUMNT BIHiiJfiT, W. Captain R.ObERT1 HENRY NELSON. " Consistent zeal to duties.—High soldierly qualities, proving to what a pitch of devotion a highly honourable man can carry his ideas of duty.—A devotion to duties, an intelligence to comprehend, an obedience -without cavil, a zeal -which never flagged to perform and endure -whatever task
-was put before him."—Stanley. HENRY VAN DEB WETDB. CoR»nBiii. i<j-o, hjh»j»bi o i nn,™ j. , Mr. A. J.
MOUNTENEY-JEPHSON. " Distinguished by his untiring industry and indefatigable zeal and unique service to the expedition,—devotion and chivalrous kindness to Emin Pasha. An indomrtability oi' spirit, courage, and celerity of movement.—Faithful and obedient."—Stanley. THK STANLEY TESTIMONIAL SHIELD This massive shield is of sterling silver, wrought in repousse about 2 ft. in height; it weighs several hundred ounces, and bears in the centre an American shield, the Stars and Stripes being indicated by varied texture of the metal.
Upon this American shield is overlaid a relief map of the Dark Continent, in oxydised silver. The American eagle at the top of the shield holds a medallion portrait of Stanley encircled by a wreath of laurels, and also holds a wand bearing the golden "Star of Duty." On the right, an Abyssinian shield plumed with lion's mane, paw and tail. Jewelled clasp bears designs—Lion of Judah and Solomon's Seal. Abyssinian trophies. Scene : Fall of Magdala, Lord Napier and Stanley in the foreground, Elephant and Camel Corps to the left. On the left, an Ashantee shield with Golden Ram's Head, Battle Axe, Hornet's Nest, War Horn with human jaws, and other trophies. Scene : Critical moment at village Egginassie, battle of Amoaful. Lord Wolseley and Stanley in
Scene below.—Journey through Dark Continent. Stanley discovers the southernmost sources of the Nile, near Suna. Thirsty followers gulping the sweet water. Scene below.—Tippoo Tib, the slave and ivory trader, at Mana Mamba, warns Stanley of the perils of the Congo. Scene following.—Stanley traces the Congo to the sea, in the "Lady Alice." Attacked by cannibal tribes, and imperilled by cataracts. Scene to the right.—Vivi.
Stanley with his fleet of steamers founding the Congo Free State. He shivers a huge boulder with a sledge hammer, and is named by natives "Bula Matari," The Rock-breaker—the All- powerful—the name by which he is now known through all Africa. Scene above.—Emin Relief Expedition, Aruwimi Forest. Stanley attacked by Wambutti dwarfs, Stairs in boat "Advance" wounded, Parke attending wounded native, Nelson and Jephson supporting bill- hookers who are carving a way through the forest. Native blazing a tree to guide rear-guard. Village, canoes and cataract in distance. Horned serpent, monkey, huge butterfly, types of trees, flowers, fruits, etc. Camp scene in the great forest, above.—Stanley encounters starvation. His officers return empty-handed from the hunt. His foragers return with but a few handfuls of fungi, beans and pepper leaves in their aprons, to feed hundreds of starving men. Randy captures the guinea fowl. Adam and Eve near Stanley. Hammock bridge in distance. Piped ant-hill, etc., in foreground. Scene top right-hand corner.— Stanley rescues Emin, traces the Simihki to its source, discovers the Mountains of the Moon, and confirms his previous discovery of Albert Edward Nyanza. Expedition arrives at lake shore, Stanley heads column, gunbearers at side. Emin follows with Casati at his side. Hammock bearers carrying Emin's daughter Fenda, Surgeon Parke attending her. Stairs sketching Mountains of the Moon, Nelson and Jephson taking observations. About fifty types of native men, women and children, with typical accessories, Maxim gun, baggage, etc., etc. Every prominent figure on the shield is a special study, and represents a personality or a type. Every accessory has some special significance. The grip at the back of the shield is in the form of an African lion, and the arm guard is a crocodile. TRIBUTE MEDALLIONS FOR STANLEY'S CHIEF OFFICERS The silver medallions in rugged metal, and barbaric in character, are four inches in diameter, and bear a replica of the Stanley portrait as on the shield, with inscription: "Never while human nature remains as we know it, will there be found four gentlemen so matchless for their constancy, devotion to their work, earnest purpose, and unflinching obedience to honour and duty."—Stanley. On the reverse, portraits of the Officers in bold relief, American and British flags Map of Africa with outline route of the expedition. Scenes : Forest, Mountains of the Moon, Albert Edward Nyanza, Battle, etc. The designs for the shield and medallions are by Henry Wellcome. The shield has been wrought by Messrs.
