Who Else Has a Big Bet on Facebook

By TELIS DEMOS CONNECT

We reported this morning about the concentration of Facebook stock in the portfolio of one group of investors, several mutual funds operated by Morgan Stanley Asset Management. But that is not where the concentration of Facebook stock ends.

According to fresh data from Ipreo, which has tallied up the public filings by all investors, a relatively large chunk of Facebook stock just three months after its $16 billion IPO in May is held by the company's 10 largest institutional investors (that excludes insiders, like CEO Mark Zuckerberg, and the early VC investors, like Accel Partners).

The top 10 "accounts," in banker-speak, represent about 50% of Facebook's institutional ownership, according to Ipreo, the capital markets data firm. That tops the 42% concentration for the top 10 institutions for all second quarter tech IPOs three months after they went public. Across more comparable $1 billion-plus IPOs since 2010, the concentration is even lighter: The top 10 institutional accounts held 32% of those companies' shares.

This data, keep in mind, does not tell us who bought the IPO. That's a closely guarded secret held by the lead underwriters. These figures are based on public disclosures as of June 30. They are at best a proxy for how the IPO was actually distr buted.

So who are the biggest betters — by total number of shares, not necessarily by weighting within the fund – on Facebook? Morgan Stanley Asset Management is only the fifth largest holder by that measure, according to lpreo. Above them are Goldman Sachs Asset Management, Baillie Gifford & Company, Fidelity Investments, and T. Rowe Price Group Inc. Rounding out the top 10 are BlackRock Inc., Sands Capital

Some of those investors were big pre-IPO holders. Goldman Sachs famously marketed a fund with pre-IPO Facebook stock to international investors, which accounts for a big chunk of its holdings. T. Rowe Price and Fidelity also bought in before the IPO. The point here is that they all may still be sitting on Facebook stock gains, depending on when exactly they got into the stock.

Others, however, appear to have gotten in primarily via the IPO, or after it began trading. That includes Baillie Gifford, an Edinburgh-based fund management giant that manages assets of £76.0 billion ($120 billion). They are a sub-advisor to some large fund management families, like Vanguard, but also manage money on behalf of giant pension funds such as the California Public Employees' Retirement System (CALPERS), the New York City Police Pension Fund and the Korea National Pension Service, according to their website. The firm did not return requests for an interview.

Some of the big investors are also there just because they have to be. BlackRock and Vanguard operate many index funds that may have bought Facebook stock solely because it likely will be a member someday of indexes such as the S&P 500 and Nasdaq 100, and is already in indexes such as the Russell 1000.

What speaks loudly are the absences of firms that are typically very big holders of recently IPO'd companies. Citadel Advisors, which bought 17 other second-quarter IPOs according to Ipreo, owned just 167,164 Facebook shares at the end of June. Wellington Management Company LLP and Lord Abbett & Company LLC, which bought 11 second quarter IPOs, both held fewer than 1m shares. For context, Baillie Gifford reported holding 19 million shares.
