Bain Capital completes purchase of Sensata Technologies from Texas Instruments

Sale creates standalone global leader in sensors and controls

ATTLEBORO, Massachusetts (April 27, 2006) – Sensata Technologies, Inc., formerly the Sensors & Controls business of Texas Instruments Incorporated, today announced that Bain Capital, LLC, a leading global private investment firm, has completed its purchase of the company. The total value of the transaction, which was announced on January 9, 2006, is $3.0 billion.

The sale creates a standalone company that is the global leader in the sensors and controls business. Headquartered in Attleboro, Massachusetts and with additional manufacturing and technology development centers located in Brazil, China, Holland, Japan, Korea, Malaysia, and Mexico, the company also has sales offices around the world. Sensata Technologies employs 5,400 people, including 3,750 in the Americas, 1,350 in Asia, and 300 in Europe.

"The completion of the sale is a significant milestone in our company's history. We enter this new phase of our growth and development with a new name – Sensata Technologies – and a renewed commitment to excellence, innovation and customer service," said Thomas Wroe, Jr., President and Chief Executive Officer of Sensata Technologies. "Our day-to-day operations will remain the same, including our management team, staff and locations, and so will our dedication to providing customers with solutions that enable them to win in their marketplaces. We will invest in our growth as a standalone company for the benefit of our customers and employees."

"Sensata Technologies is the preeminent supplier of sensors and controls across a broad array of geographies and applications, and enjoys long-standing customer relationships," said Steve Zide, a Managing Director at Bain Capital. "We are enthusiastic about the company's long-term potential and look forward to supporting the management team's strategies for worldwide growth."

Bain Capital has a strong track record of purchasing non-core divisions of large, multinational companies and partnering with the management team and employees to build significant value.

Morgan Stanley, Goldman Sachs and Bank of America provided financial advisory services to Bain Capital, and JPMorgan Chase provided merger and acquisition advice.
