

Former United Nations Deputy Secretary-General Mark Malloch-Brown joins Eurasia Group as Senior Advisor

21 SEPTEMBER 2016 | 12:00 AM ET

NEW YORK, 21 September — Eurasia Group is proud to welcome the Right Honorable Lord Mark Malloch-Brown as a senior advisor to the firm. An expert on international affairs, Lord Malloch-

Brown will partner with Eurasia Group to offer strategic insight into navigating the diverse challenges across Europe, the Middle East, and Africa.

“Mark Malloch-Brown has served at the highest levels of government, international organizations, and in the private sector,” said Ian Bremmer, Eurasia Group's president. “His deep regional expertise across the world will be invaluable to our clients.”

Lord Malloch-Brown served as Deputy Secretary-General and Chief of Staff of the UN under Kofi Annan. For six years before that he was Administrator of the UNDP, leading the UN's development efforts around the world. He was later Minister of State in the Foreign Office, covering Africa and Asia, and was a member of Gordon Brown's cabinet. He previously led FTI Consulting's EMEA practice and was a member of the global executive committee.

“Lord Malloch-Brown brings a unique blend of senior level government and business experience that significantly expands Eurasia Group's capabilities in the EMEA space,” said Sean West, Deputy CEO at Eurasia Group.

“I am thrilled to team up with Ian Bremmer and other old friends at Eurasia Group, a firm I have admired from its beginning. I look forward to helping provide clients with perspectives and insights that I hope draw both on the years I have been lucky enough to spend on the international political frontline and on my continued international activity,” said Lord Malloch-Brown.

In addition to his work with Eurasia Group, Lord Malloch-Brown is Chairman of SGO and its electronic elections division Smartmatic, and is on a number of other public and private boards. He is Co-Chair of the International Crisis Group and Chair of a new Global Commission on Business and Sustainable Development. He is also a Visiting Distinguished Practitioner at Oxford University's Blavatnik School of Government and an Adjunct Fellow at The Queen Elizabeth 11 Academy for Leadership at Chatham House. Eurasia Group is the world's leading global political risk research and consulting firm. By providing information and insight on how political developments move markets, we help clients anticipate and respond to instability and opportunities everywhere they invest or do business. Founded in 1998, the firm's name reveals its early focus on the former Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, but today our research platform is global. Our analysts monitor political, economic, social, and security developments in Africa, Asia, Eurasia, Europe, Latin America, the Middle East, and North America. Headquartered in New York, we have offices in Washington, DC, and London, as well as on-the-ground experts and resources in more than a hundred countries. Our analysts are highly trained political scientists with extensive experience in the public and private sectors.

LORD MARK MALLOCH-BROWN FORMER DEPUTY SECRETARY- GENERAL, UNITED NATIONS

Lord Mark Malloch-Brown is a former number two in the United Nations as well as having served in the British Cabinet and Foreign Office. He is active both in business and in the non-profit world, and also remains deeply involved in international affairs.

He is currently Chairman of SGO and its elections division Smartmatic, a leading elections technology company. He is on the Boards of Investec and Seplat, which are listed on the London as well as Johannesburg and Lagos stock markets respectively. He is also on the board of Kerogen, an oil and gas private equity fund. He is Co-chair of a new Global Commission on Business and Sustainable Development. He previously led FTI Consulting's EMEA practice.

He served as Deputy Secretary-General and Chief of Staff of the UN under Kofi Annan. For six years before that he was Administrator of the UNDP, leading the UN's development efforts around the world. He was later Minister of State in the Foreign Office, covering Africa and Asia, and was a member of Gordon Brown's cabinet. Other positions have included vice-chairman of George Soros's Investment Funds, as well as his Open Society Institute, a Vice-President at the World Bank and the lead international partner in a political consulting firm. He also has served as Vice-Chairman of the World Economic Forum. He began his career as a journalist at The Economist.

He chairs or is on the Board of a number of non-profit boards including the International Crisis Group, the Open Society Foundation and the Centre for Global Development.

Lord Malloch-Brown is also a Distinguished Practitioner of the Blavatnik School of Government at Oxford University and was formerly a visiting distinguished fellow at the Yale Centre for the Study of Globalisation. He has a number of honorary degrees. He was knighted in 2007 for his contribution to international affairs.

He is the author of “The Unfinished Global Revolution” and in 2005 Time Magazine put him on its list of the 100 most influential people in the world. He continues to write, broadcast and lecture about international issues.
