Symantec Products Not Compromised By Latest WikiLeaks Disclosure

By: Symantec Corp

Created 08 Mar 2017

Symantec's number one priority is the protection of our customers. With the world's largest civilian research organization, we spend every day identifying and stopping vulnerabilities and attacks, regardless of where threats may originate. Based on the information contained in the Vault 7 release, to date we see no evidence of the ability to bypass or exploit vulnerabilities in Symantec products and services. In addition, we are carefully reviewing the documents and data released to identify areas where Symantec's solutions that span the endpoint, data protection, cloud and network may be able to protect our customers and help mitigate the variety of risks included in the WikiLeaks release. We will continue to diligently monitor for any further information released and will keep our customers and constituents updated here: Click to Access Link
