REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS:

- Representation of individuals in investigations by Special Counsel Mueller and by Senate and House Intelligence Committees.
- Defense of the CEO of a government contracting firm against charges of bribery of a public official and honest services wire fraud. After a two-week trial, our client was acquitted on all counts.
- Defense of a former U.S. Congressman in a major public corruption case involving allegations of bribery, honest services fraud and FCPA violations. The case involved an eight-week jury trial and several appeals, as well as a related Constitutional challenge to the search of the Congressman's office. After the Supreme Court decision in United States v. McDonnell, we brought a Section 2255 motion that resulted in the vacation of most counts of conviction and a substantial reduction in sentence.
- Defense of a former Fannie Mae employee in a False Claims Act investigation into transactions involving multi-million dollar apartment complexes.
- Representation of a BP employee in the criminal investigation into the Deepwater Horizon explosion.
- Representation of attorneys in illegal gratuities and mortgage fraud investigations.
- Representation of a former Merrill Lynch employee in civil litigation arising from the collapse of Enron.
- Defense of a commercial landlord in civil false claims litigation brought by the District of Columbia.
- Representation of a major manufacturer in antitrust actions concerning alleged price-fixing in urethanes chemicals and in the foam industry.
- Representation of a major law firm sued for alleged tortious interference with a departing paralegal's subsequent employment.

 MENU

- Pro bono representation of the D.C. Council in an investigation into the contracting practices of the Department of Parks and Recreation.
