Background

Obama's background is unclear and he has sealed his educational records.<sup>[2]</sup> He transferred from Occidental to Columbia University his junior year in college. His time at Columbia is cloaked in mystery. Like Obama, Wayne Allyn Root was a political science major at Columbia who also graduated in 1983. In 2008, Root said of Obama:

"I don't know a single person at Columbia that knew him, and they all know me. I don't have a classmate who ever knew Barack Obama at Columbia. Ever! Nobody recalls him. I'm not exaggerating, I'm not kidding."

Obama's records are spookily well sealed.<sup>[1]</sup>

Columbia student. I have no idea what he did on the Columbia campus. No one knows him.”

In an age where the college records of presidential candidates are generally released to the public. Barack Obama stands alone in keeping his college records sealed. In June of 1981, right after moving to NYC with almost no money, Obama was able to travel to Indonesia and Pakistan despite Pakistan being on the US State Department's “no travel” list in 1981. In Pakistan, Obama went on a partridge hunting trip with Muhammad Soomro, who went on go on to become acting president of Pakistan in 2008.<sup>[3]</sup>

Barack Obama's paternal grandfather, Onyango Obama, was a fighter for the King's African Rifles during World War 1.<sup>[4]</sup> The King's African Rifles were a pro-colonialist group with allegiance to the British Empire, which colonized Kenya at the time. The soldiers of the group, known as askaris, were native inhabitants of Kenya, while the officers were from the British Army. Onyango Obama first converted from his native African religion to be a Protestant Christian during British colonial rule.<sup>[5]</sup> He then claims that he was imprisoned and tortured by the British for six months for "seeking the independence of Kenya", though no such records of this exist.<sup>[6]</sup> He then later claimed to have converted to Islam and adopted the name "Hussein", from which Barack Obama received his middle name.<sup>[7]</sup> Some have suggested that he portrayed himself as being targeted by the British for seeking independence and his public conversion to Islam in order to infiltrate pro-independence and Muslim circles to act as a spy for British intelligence. The pro-colonial lineage of Obama has been left unmentioned by the mainstream media, whom often champion his election as a black civil rights victory.

Presidential Policies

As a loyal member of the US deep state, Obama has continued the deep state's policies of the militarisation of US Society by assisting the rollback of civil liberties, and ramping up the war on terror while continuing the unhampered mass surveillance. Nobel peace prize notwithstanding, his foreign policy has been to escalate conflicts abroad and to try to reignite a new cold war. Bob Franken remarked in 2011 that “In spite of the promise of “Change you can believe in,” it looks like things are basically UNchanged”<sup>[8]</sup>. While talking the talk of open government, his administration has been the most secretive in U.S. history.<sup>[9]</sup>

Obama: A Legacy of Ashes

A video by James Corbett

"War on Terror"

Full article: ★★★★★★ "War on Terror"

Obama has continued the US government's policy of terrorising people both within the US and overseas. A couple of days before collecting his nobel peace prize, he announced a "surge" (i.e. an increase, what was referred to in the less image-conscious days of the Vietnam War as an "escalation") in troop numbers in the ongoing US invasion of Afghanistan.<sup>[10]</sup>

Assassination

Full article: ★★★★★★ Assassination

Murder without pretense of judicial process has become a routine part of US foreign policy under Obama. Not long after becoming president, he arranged what senior US officials called "Terror Tuesdays" in which he personally selects people for assassination by drone strikes. Jeremy Scahill noted that "One of the enduring legacies of Obama's presidency is how he has normalised assassination as a central component of what is called America's national security policy"<sup>[11]</sup> Obama is reported to have told his aides while discussing drone strikes that he's "really good at killing people".<sup>[12]</sup>

Guantanamo Bay detention camp

Full article: Guantanamo Bay detention camp

On 22 January 2009, Obama signed an order to suspend proceedings at the Guantanamo military commission for 120 days and shut down the detention facility that year.<sup>[13][14]</sup>

Wikipedia suggests that the prevention was hindered by an unnamed "military judge at Guantanamo" who on 29 January 2009 rejected the request in the case of Abd al-Rahim al-Nashiri.<sup>[15]</sup> On 7 January 2011, President Obama signed the 2011 National Defense Authorization Act, which, in part, placed restrictions on the transfer of Guantanamo prisoners to the mainland or to foreign countries, thus effectively preventing the closure of the facility.<sup>[16]</sup> In the 2014 National Defense Authorization Bill, a $69 million upgrade to the facility was proposed.<sup>[17]</sup>

Nuclear Weapons

Obama has pledged to reduce the world's stockpile of nuclear arms, whilst seeking to increase funding for nuclear weapons research. In 2010 he sought to expand the US nuclear budget and in October 2013, his Assistant Defense Secretary Madelyn Creedon told a panel in the U.S. House of Representatives that "modernization work of this kind is expensive, but there is no doubt that the investment ... is necessary", explaining why multi-billion dollar expenditure was needed to modernize the US nuclear arsenal in pursuit of President Barack Obama's goal of reducing it.<sup>[18][19]</sup>

On 27 May 2016, speaking on the first visit by a US president to Hiroshima in Japan, Obama called for nations to reconsider the development of nuclear weapons and to roll back and "ultimately eliminate" them. He concluded:

"The world was forever changed here. But today, the children of this city will go through their day in peace. What a precious thing that is. It is worth protecting, and then extending to every child. That is the future we can choose. A future in which Hiroshima and Nagasaki are known not for the bomb of atomic warfare but as the start of our own moral awakening."<sup>[20]</sup>

Torture

Under Obama, public acceptance of torture is higher than it was under George W Bush in 2001. His admission that "we tortured some folks" has been followed by a marked absence of discussion about legal actions as a result - which are mandated by the United Nations Convention against Torture, to which the US has long been a signatory.

Birth Certificate

Obama has been the subject of allegations (not backed by the commercially-controlled media) that he was not born in the US, and as such is not eligible to be a US president. Donald Trump has vocally supported the claims of those who doubt Obama's eligibility, stating "This may go down as the greatest con in the history of American politics". On October 24, 2012, Trump offered to donate five million dollars to the charity of Obama's choice in return for the publication of his college and passport applications before October 31, 2012. Obama did not take him up on the offer.<sup>[21]</sup>

Though the mainstream media and conservative politicians have suggested that the birth certificate has been hidden because it will show a birthplace of Kenya, some have theorized that it has been hidden due to Barack Obama really being born in Israel. It's thus suspected that Obama's political rivals have capitalized on this, knowing that a genuine copy could not be publicly released, and instead propagated an Obama-Kenya-Muslim connection in order to demonize both Obama and Muslims while not negatively affecting Jews and Israel.

Loretta Fuddy, the Hawaii official in the dispute over Barack Obama's birth certificate who lifted state restrictions to allow the White House to present the document to the public died in a plane crash on December 12th, 2013.<sup>[22][23]</sup> The other passengers walked away virtually unscathed (according to eyewitness reports) or had only minor injuries.<sup>[24]</sup>

The whitehouse released a PDF file which it claimed to be a scan of Obama's birth certificate, but doubts have been raised about its authenticity. In March 2014, the Alabama Supreme Court voted 7-2 to render "no opinion."<sup>[25][26]</sup>

Origin of Name

Barack Obama himself writes that his name is of Arabic origin, though this seems dubious and implausible. There is no such word – let alone name – such as Barrack (باراك) in the Arabic language. This form of conjugation of the Arabic root for 'blessing' (b-r-k) in itself does not exist in the Arabic language. Arabs, or the greater Muslim population for that matter, are also not known to use the name either as a given name nor as a surname.

However, the word does exist in Hebrew (ברק) and is a very population Jewish name. Famous Israelis that have the name include former Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Barack, former President of the Supreme Court of Israel Aharon Barack, and Israeli soccer players Barack Moses & Barack Yitzhaki. The name is found in the Hebrew Bible, being the name of a military commander who appears in the Book of Judges. The transliteration of a final letter Kaph as "ck" instead of just "k" is also found in transliterations of Hebrew, not Arabic.

It is thus assumed that Barack Obama lied about the origin of his name being Arabic, using the inherent similarities between Hebrew and Arabic, both of which are Semitic languages, to fabricate an alternate, non-Hebrew background for his name.

His middle name of "Hussein" came from being named after his paternal grandfather, Onyango Obama, who himself changed his name to Hussein Obama after allegedly converting to Islam – the second time he claimed to have converted to a different religion.

Criticism

In January 2014, Florida state House candidate Joshua Black tweeted about Obama: "I'm past impeachment. It's time to arrest and hang him high." Apparently referring to the murder of Anwar al-Awlaki, he stated further: "I think the appropriate punishment is death.... (Obama) shouldn't be allowed to kill Americans without a trial", adding "I make no apologies for saying that the president is not above the People. If ordinary Americans should be executed for treason, so should he."<sup>[27]</sup>

Nobel Peace Prize

Barack Obama was awarded the 2009 Nobel Peace Prize "for his extraordinary efforts to strengthen international diplomacy and cooperation between peoples".<sup>[28]</sup> Obama accepted this award in Oslo, Norway on December 10, 2009, with "deep gratitude and great humility",<sup>[29]</sup> just after escalation of the U.S. war in Afghanistan.<sup>[30]</sup>

Later Activities

In 2017, Obama was reported to have secured a $400,000 fee for a single keynote speech with Cantor Fitzgerald.<sup>[31]</sup>

Legal Case

Hedges v. Obama	Chris Hedges Daniel Ellsberg Jenifer Bolen Noam Chomsky Alexa O'Brien Kai Wargalla Birgitta Jónsdóttir	Barack Obama Leon Panetta John McCain John Boehner Harry Reid Nancy Pelosi John Michael McConnell Eric Cantor United States of America US Department of Defense	13 January 2012	28 April 2014	The plaintiffs challenged the 2012 NDAA contending that indefinite detention on "suspicion of providing substantial support" to groups such as al-Qaeda and the Taliban was so vague as to allow unconstitutional, indefinite detention of civilians based on vague allegations. The Court of Appeals struck down an initial agreement, and the US Supreme Court concurred, arguing that the plaintiffs could not prove they would be affected by the law, so had no standing to contest it.
