William Jacobus vanden Heuvel (born April 14, 1930) is an American attorney, businessman and author, as well as a former diplomat. He is the father of Katrina vanden Heuvel, longtime editor of The Nation magazine, and Wendy vanden Heuvel, children from his marriage to author/editor Jean Stein, wealthy daughter of Jules C. Stein, founder of MCA.

Vanden Heuvel was born in a working class family in Rochester, New York, the son of a Dutch immigrant father and a Belgian immigrant mother, Alberta. He attended public schools in New York. He attended Deep Springs College (Deep Springs did not "graduate" attendees at that time) and graduated from Cornell University, where he was a member of the Cornell Branch of the Telluride Association. While a student at Cornell Law School, he was editor-in-chief of the Cornell Law Review, served as president of the Young Democrats and Debate Club, and was elected to the Tompkins County Board of Commissioners. He was admitted to the New York Bar in 1952, and then joined the law firm of Donovan, Leisure, Newton & Irvine as an Associate.

In 1962, he became U.S. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy's assistant, and was involved in Kennedy's 1964 and 1968 political campaigns. As special assistant to Attorney General Kennedy, vanden Heuvel played the key role in court, orchestrating the desegregation of the Prince Edward County school system, which expanded the scope of the landmark decision, Brown v. Board of Education.\[6\]

In 1965, he joined Stroock & Stroock & Lavan as Senior Partner where he practiced international and corporate law. In the 1970s, vanden Heuvel, as Chairman of the New York City Board of Corrections, led a campaign to investigate conditions in the city's prison system.

Vanden Heuvel has held directorships in a number of public companies. They include: the U.S. Banknote Corporation, Time Warner, Inc., and the North Aegean Petroleum company, and others. Since 1984, he has been a Senior Advisor to the investment banking firm Allen & Company.\[9\] He is Chairman of the American Austrian Foundation\[10\] and Co-chairman of the Council of American Ambassadors. Since 1984, vanden Heuvel has been Chairman of Roosevelt Institute and a current member of the Council on Foreign Relations.\[11\] He is a Governor and former Chairman of the United Nations Association of the United States of America, and has written extensively on the United Nations and American foreign policy.\[12\] He is also a member of Collegium International, an organization of leaders with political, scientific, and ethical expertise whose goal is to provide new approaches in overcoming the obstacles in the way of a peaceful, socially just and an economically sustainable world. He serves as an honorary chairman of The OSS Society.

Political campaigns

In 1960, Vanden Heuvel ran as a Democrat in the New York City's then 17th Congressional District, against John V. Lindsay, the incumbent Republican Representative.\[13\] The 17th district at that time was strongly identified with the Upper East Side of Manhattan, which has been often referred to as the "Silk Stocking" district. Lindsay handily won the highly contested race by 80,000 votes to Vanden Heuvel's 54,000.\[14\]

In June 1973, Vanden Heuvel challenged Frank Hogan in the Democratic Primary for the position of Manhattan District Attorney. Hogan had served for 32 years in the position and easily won the Primary, assuring Hogan victory in the General Election in November, with the support of all the political parties.\[15\][16]
